WOMEN IN EDUCATION AND LEADERSHIP

Sharing women leaders' stories to explore allegiance is a way of harnessing our unique strengths and growing our capacity as leaders.

This session explores overcoming imposter syndrome and creating and leveraging relationships and personal interactions to develop our organisation. For men and women, the session is designed to expand our collective capacities.

LANGUAGE EQUITY AND LANGUAGE JUSTICE

Academic development as well as cultural identity are enhanced when students' home languages are nurtured and used in school. When English is the only language of instruction, whose are the voices we are not representing?

This session unpacks evidence-based strategies and teaching approaches that embrace the active use of diverse languages to increase cognitive connections and shape a culture of inclusion.

DESIGNING ACCESS FOR ALL LEARNERS

Educators as designers of inclusive cultures, ideate, build and manage systems and resources to support all students.

Using the design cycle, this workshop engages us in applying universal design for all students to access learning: If the system or tool is good for one person's learning, it is good for everyone's learning.

CONFRONTING BIAS

Creating a culture of allyship creates a safe space to intentionally confront entrenched systems of power and privilege.

Within a dialogue of understanding, we will explore how we can move beyond "othering", the difference between 'not being racist' and being 'anti-racist' and how we reflect upon the small steps that create change in our systems.

CREATING A SENSE OF BELONGING THROUGH COMMUNITY

A learning environment that embraces diversity and celebrates inclusion, through the lens of equity and justice, is a community where all stakeholders feel a sense of belonging.

This session engages us in planning for how we embrace conflict as a tool for growth, how we plan for transitions in and out of our school community and how we care for all our stakeholders within a climate of psychological safety, empathy and compassion.

BUILDING AN EQUITABLE AND INCLUSIVE SCHOOL CULTURE

When DEIJ is the lens through which we do everything, what does DEIJ look like /sound like / feel like? We will focus on intentional steps towards creating a school culture of self-care and community care where stakeholders integrate with the culture rather than being assimilated into it.

We will explore how diversity can promote different perspectives, constructive self-criticism, and cognitive curiosity where everyone is included, respected and safe.
